

"The seraphic four-part harmonies of Sylvia, Cindy, Caitlin and Gwen are a boundless source of delight. Quartette vocalizes like they've grown up on the same street...in the same family. The counterpoint intermingling of human voices can sound positively celestial. This was the case with Quartette."

"I've been the host of Morningside for almost twelve years, and there have been few musical moments more exciting than the appearance and performance of the four women who make up Quartette."

Peter Gzowski

Morningside, CBC Radio

"Free of glitzy ornamentation, Tyson and crew float through their own finely crafted folk/country/gospel/cajun/bluegrass compositions with a simple grace rarely found in contemporary music."

Now Magazine

"Quartette, a fab four of accomplished female singer-songwriters, delivered a low-key, high quality set Thursday night at the Austin Music hall, a set permeated with the sort of country music purity Nashville hasn't heard, much less produced, in decades."

The Austin American Statesman

Strength in numbers is a phrase you hear almost every day. It has been an honour to have worked with Gwen, Sylvia, Cindy and Caitlin on several projects where, collectively and individually, they have shone as writers and performers. Even being so close to them (our musical relationship goes back 10 years) has not stopped the hair on the back of my neck from standing up when I hear them sing together. It is their natural ability to arrange in an intricate yet solid way that I am particularly struck by. Strength in numbers, indeed.
